

My wife and I travel considerably and have found satellite radio to be a tremendous source of entertainment and information. The traffic reports for various cities are a valuable tool for helping us plan our route through the city well before we are in range of the local broadcasts which are not ever timely or even available. I strongly urge that this feature remain on satellite radio. We are big users throughout Texas, California and will be travelling to the east coast in the fall. We want this feature to be available.
